1. General guiding principles of the Remuneration Policy

In accordance with paragraphs 2, 4 and 5 of article 115°-C of the RGISCF, the Remuneration Policy concerning:

- i) Board of Directors and Supervisory Board Members has to be approved on a yearly basis by the General Assembly;
- ii) persons mentioned on paragraph 7, 8, 9 e 10 of this document has to be reviewed and approved periodically by the Board of Directors following suggestion by the Nominations and Remunerations Committee (“CNRP”).

Relevant legislation on this matter sets out, inter alia, that Banco Primus is obliged to set out a Remuneration Policy with the following objectives:

- Definition of a simple, clear and transparent policy, aligned with Bank’s culture, taking into account the Group to which it belongs;
- Definition of a consistent policy with an effective management and risk control in order to avoid excessive exposure to risk and conflicts of interests, on one hand, and to look for consistency with the goals, values and long-term interests of the Bank and its employees, as well as the interests of its customers and shareholders, on the other hand;
- Definition of a competitive and equitable policy, taking into account the market practices, following a remuneration practice based on uniform, consistent, fair and balanced criteria;
- Alignment of the remuneration policy with the best practices and recent trends and legislation in the financial sector, with the ultimate goal of discouraging excessive risk exposure and of promoting the continuity and sustainability of performance: i) establishment of maximum levels for the remuneration components that should be balanced with each other, ii) portion of variable compensation deferred in time;
- Validation of individual variable remuneration considering the Performance Appraisal (quantitatively and qualitatively), according to the worker’s duties and level of responsibility;
- Determination that remuneration of employees who perform risk management and control functions is supervised directly by the CNRP.

As a subsidiary of an entity, Banco Primus is required to comply with the Volcker rules (§ 619 of the Dodd–Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act) because of Natixis' activities in North America. Nevertheless, since Banco Primus is not a financial intermediary and does not operate on financial markets or for third parties, it’s considered that Volcker rules should not have effective application in Banco Primus.

In case of any activity (treasury, ALM, derivatives, securitizations, primary market and participations in the appropriate markets) or any staff of Banco Primus be concerned, Banco Primus could be subject to these provisions : i) Staff working in these areas should be guided by appropriate procedures and roadmaps to ensure compliance with limits in terms of authorized products and operations ; ii) this staff should be informed about this provisions, benefit from training courses enabling them to know and apply them ; iii) specific checks should be carried out to verify compliance. In this respect, the system for malus would also apply to the employees affected by the Volcker Rule (see 14).

The Remuneration Policy follows the principle of proportionality, considering a combination of all the following criteria: the size, the internal organization and the nature, scope and complexity of the activity.

Pursuant to the Remuneration Policy, in accordance with article 41 of Aviso 3/2020, relevant subjects are required to identify the relevant categories of staff members that bear a significant impact in its risk profile. The scope of this document is, inter alia, to:

- a) Approve and identify the material risk takers of Banco Primus;
- b) Ensure the annual review of the identified material risk takers staff;
- c) Ensure the relevant communications in accordance with Instrução 18/2020¹.

2. Scope of the document and Remuneration Policy

The following bodies/members are covered under this document and the Remuneration Policy:

- Non-Executive Board Members;
- Executive Board Members;
- Members of the Supervisory Board;
- Executive Managers and Senior Managers (“Diretores”);
- Control functions Officers (Audit, Compliance and Risk Officers);
- Other members of staff whose professional activities have a material impact on the institution’s risk profile.

In fact, it is understood that these persons represent, in Banco Primus case, the employees whose functions and responsibilities have a material impact on the risk profile of the Bank.

The identification of all staff whose professional activity has or may have a material impact on Banco Primus risk profile is performed annually in a self-assessment process. The self-assessment is based on the qualitative and quantitative criteria set out in articles 3 to 6 of the Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) No 923/2021 and includes additional criteria set forth by Banco Primus that reflect the levels of risk of different activities within the institution and the impact of staff members on the risk profile.

3. Governance of the Remuneration Policy

- The Board of Directors is responsible for adopting and maintaining the remuneration policy of Banco Primus and overseeing its implementation to ensure it is fully operating as intended.
- The Nominations and Remunerations Committee (CNRP) is responsible for:
 - i) providing informed and independent opinion about the remuneration policy and practices;
 - ii) evaluating, at least annually, the structure, dimension, composition and performance of the management and supervisory bodies and issuing recommendations aiming eventual changes;

¹ At this date this aspect is still to be regulated by the Bank of Portugal

- iii) evaluating, at least annually, the knowledge, competences and experience of each member of the management and fiscal bodies and communicating them the conclusions;
 - iv) monitoring, annually, the management remuneration policies, issuing for the purposes an annual declaration about the Remuneration Policy or any other legal report/declaration;
 - v) verifying the compliance of the remuneration policies and procedures adopted by the competent body;
 - vi) providing to the competent bodies the supporting documents to the decision processes related to the remuneration of the management and supervisory bodies, as well as to the decisions with impact in terms of risk and risk management of the bank; in general terms;
 - vii) carrying out all the competences attributed by the RGICSF and by any other national or European applicable legislation.
- The Human Resources function participates in and informs on the preparation and the evaluation of the remuneration policy for the institution, including the remuneration structure, remuneration levels and incentive schemes, in a way that would not only attract and retain the staff but also assuring that the remuneration policy is aligned with the institution's risk profile.
 - The Risk Management function assists and informs on the definition of suitable risk-adjusted performance measures (including ex post adjustments). The Risk Management function should assess the adequacy of the variable remuneration structure to the risk profile and culture of Banco Primus and to the level of internal capital, assuring that it does not compromise the Bank's capacity of meeting its capital requirements and of reinforcing its own funds.
 - The Compliance function analyses how the remuneration policy affects the institution's compliance with legislation, regulations, internal policies and risk culture and reports all identified compliance risks and issues of non-compliance to the management body, both in its management and supervisory functions;
 - The Audit function carries out an independent review of the design, implementation and effects of the institution's remuneration policies on its risk profile.

4. Objectives

The Remuneration Policy aims to:

- Allow Banco Primus to permanently attract, motivate and retain top-level people with high potential, in the competitive environment in which the Bank operates;
- Encourage and reward relevant individual contributions and the good collective performance;

12. General terms and conditions applicable to variable component

This Remuneration Policy is not applicable inter alia on the following situations:

- i) In case of an event of State exceptional intervention;
- ii) In the event payment of the aforementioned component is made using financial instruments such as stock options, derivatives, or other financial instruments mentioned on sub paragraph a) and b) of paragraph 3 of article 115° E of RGICSF.

13. Guidelines and principles applicable to variable component

The definition of the variable component of the staff remuneration cannot limit in any way the ability of Banco Primus to reinforce its own funds and to ensure that its payment takes into consideration present and future risks as mentioned on the RGICSF.

The variable component cannot exceed in any circumstances the value of the Fixed component for each staff member.

In accordance with paragraph 2 of article 115° E of RGICSF, the following guidelines must be followed on establishing the Variable Component (when its computation depends on the staff's performance):

- Total amount of variable component must be established in accordance with the performance of the employee considering financial and non-financial criteria, along with the performance of the Structural Unit/Department and the financial results of Banco Primus;
- The performance review must be made in accordance with a multi annual period, ensuring that the evaluation process is made taking into consideration long term performance and inherent risks to Banco Primus;
- The performance appraisal results used to compute the variable component must also anticipate adjustments considering the present and future risks to which Banco Primus is exposed, as well as its own funds and liquidity requirements;
- Notwithstanding the above, specific waivers can apply in regard to provisions set out in paragraph 95 et sequitur of EBA/GL/2021/04 on sound remuneration policies.

14. Clawback and Malus mechanisms

Payment of variable annual remuneration is not mandatory and it is awarded at the relevant discretion of the CNRP or applicable organs of Banco Primus. All payments made under this Policy² are subject to the following limitations:

- Reversion or Clawback as established under section b) of paragraph 12 of Article 115 E of the RGICSF, consisting on the recovery of payments disbursed to the employee;

² Applicable from the 24th November 2014 onwards.

- Reduction or Malus as established under section a) of paragraph 12 of Article 115 E of the RGICSF, consisting on the full or partial reduction of deferred payments due but not yet disbursed.

The mentioned limitations are applicable, inter alia, on the following cases:

- The employee took part or was responsible for actions that resulted or may result on significant losses to Banco Primus;
- The employee ceased to comply with suitability and honorability criteria for performing his/her duties (if applicable);
- There is evidence of misconduct or serious error by the staff member (e.g. breach of code of conduct and other internal rules, especially concerning risks);
- Whether the institution and/or the business unit subsequently suffers a significant downturn in its financial performance (e.g. specific business indicators);
- Whether the institution and/or the business unit in which the identified staff member works suffers a significant failure of risk management;
- Significant increases in the institution's or business unit's economic or regulatory capital base;
- Any regulatory sanctions where the conduct of the identified staff member contributed to the sanction.

Malus and clawback arrangements should lead to a reduction of the variable remuneration where appropriate. Under no circumstances should an explicit ex post risk adjustment lead to an increase of the initially awarded variable remuneration or, where malus or clawback was already applied in the past, to an increase of the reduced variable remuneration.

It is also the CNRP's recommendation that Banco Primus when paying the variable annual remuneration implements the necessary legal steps to ensure the fulfillment of the conditions under this subsection.

15. Closing Remarks

As a rule, the CNRP is the entity determining the value of the remunerations for the members of the Board of Directors and of the Supervisory Board. If, for some reason, the CNRP is unable to do so, the Board Members together with the Control Functions and the Human Resources will bear this responsibility.

The award of a variable remuneration cannot at any time limit in any way the ability of Banco Primus to assure its own funds legal requirements and must have in consideration all sorts of present and future risks under the RGICSF.
